WIN/Staff implements statewide credentialing software requirements for Group Health Cooperative

(San Diego, CA November 15, 2002) – WIN/Staff successfully converted and implemented a statewide physician credentialing information system for Group Health Cooperative (GHC) in the state of Washington. The complex implementation involved combining two credentialing departments with two different databases into a single common credentialing database.

Michelle O’Neill, Credentialing/Quality Manager, commented, “After our systems consolidation with Group Health Cooperative in Seattle last year, we had a daunting challenge to merge two large credentialing departments in Eastern and Western Washington into a single global credentialing database, accessible by staff across the state. We had over 8,000 physicians on two different vendor systems. WIN/Staff converted and combined them into a single database.”

Andy Lock, President and CEO of WIN/Staff, said, "This was a challenging implementation but with the help of the GHC staff, we were able to successfully convert the necessary credentialing data from two different systems into a single statewide database. We are confident that as GHC implements additional features and our new web-based software, they will become even more efficient in the credentialing activities”.
